Royal Porcelain Works

Imperial Imari Collection

Inspired by oriental porcelain from China and Japan, Robert Chamberlain was one of the first British makers to recreate the most familiar and distinctive of designs known as Imari. Characterised by the rich palette of red, blue and gold, Chamberlain & Co's vibrant new Imari inspired design is an exquisite splendour handmade for today's collector and perfectly presented on the elegant Abberley Comport.

Croome Ginger Jar

The magnificent Croome Ginger Jar proudly displays the vivid colours and intricate patterns of the striking new Imperial Imari design, inspired by classic ornamental forms of the Chamberlain period.

Height: 680mm, Foot Diameter: 245mm, Maximum Diameter: 380mm

Abberley Comport

The expansive surface of the elegant, fine bone china Abberley Comport provides the perfect platform to show the remarkable Imari decoration's rich composition; enhanced with beautiful 23 carat gold detailing.

Height: 70mm, Foot Diameter: 165mm, Diameter: 380mm

Elmley Bowl

The graceful lines of the Elmley Bowl perfectly complement the finery of Imperial Imari. The rich gold and deep in glaze colours around the bowl contrast superbly with a central motif of delicate hand painted and gilded flowers.

Height: 125mm, Foot Diameter: 165mm, Diameter: 340mm
